

Door security

Thursday, 21 February 2008

A simple security application demonstrating the use of energy harvesting for monitoring of door traffic.

The following video shows how the very fact of opening or closing a door generates energy sufficient to set off a wireless sensor. The system is always armed since there is no battery.

We apologise for video quality which was taken on an old photo camera and will post a replacement in a near future.

{flv}2008-02-20-door-security{/flv}